

Magazine Menu Page Type Tutorial

One of AppsZero's most popular page types is Magazine Menu page type. Magazine Menu allows app designers to present clickable menu items with thumbnails followed by a description page in a very easy and stylish way.

To add a Magazine Menu page to the resources of your app go to your app's Dashboard → Edit Pages → + Add New Page. In the menu of all our page types select Magazine Menu and click Create.

This is how a Magazine Menu will look like after you have set it up:

Magazine Menu editor is very straight forward and has nothing complex to it. Start by adding menu items by clicking + just below the Magazine Menu Items list. After you have added as many of them as you like, proceed to the Item Properties:

Here you can choose a thumbnail for each of your menu items from the resource manager, name the items, specify target page to which user will be redirected after tapping an item and provide a short description to them.
