

Podcast Page Type Tutorial

If you have your podcast, we have a page type for it. AppsZero online application editor allows its users to add podcasts to their apps in a very easy way. On a device though the podcast will have a fairly sophisticated presentation.

The Podcast page type is very easy to set up. In your app's Dashboard go to Edit Pages and add a new page. You will be redirected to the Marketplace where you can find that page type for your application. You are able to view the Marketplace in GRID, LIST and ICONS.

The Podcast page type editor has many standard options like Facebook sharing and style properties editing, header image and title:

podcast1.html

The Podcast specific editing option is Podcast URL. The Podcast URL field takes a link to the RSS feed of the podcast. In the app podcast will look like a feed each item of which is clickable. Clicking on each item takes a user to a page with more information about selected podcast and a "Play" button.
